

Jeff Stanfield

There are a lot of reasons to not enjoy living with MS, but without a doubt one of the best (and the only one that springs to mind, of the reason's we keep going) is the people you meet who are living with this illness. I have been fortunate enough to recently be introduced to Jeff Stanfield. I received the following e-mail from Sherry telling me about Jeff. I am using Sherry's words below because she has managed to say what every person who lives with someone with MS does everyday. They keep us moving and Jeff is a great example of what Team MS is all about. People staying in life!

Great job Jeff and keep going.

“ He has one finished hat has done very well at the shows and has another one almost completed and would like to incorporate the team MS logo into the paint scheme if you all would let him. He builds to keep his mind alert.”

Jeff enjoying his work.

This is how this bike started out.
